

Middle East Studies Programme

Spring 2025

The programme

The Middle East Studies programme at NVIC targets second and third year bachelor students of the humanities, social sciences or related fields. The interdisciplinary programme aims to familiarize students with various topics on the region with a particular focus on Egypt. The programme is made up of 5 modules, three of which explore political, economic, and cultural issues taught in English, and two Arabic language classes at various levels.

Please note: MA students may apply to this programme, but will need permission from their university first. Content modules will be tailored to suit requirements of MA level study. For Leiden University College (LUC) students, your application must first go the faculty nomination process.

The programme consists of the following courses:

Course module	Hours/ w	ECTS
1. Content class 1	2	5
2. Content class 2	2	5
3. Content class 3	2	5
4. Egyptian Colloquial Arabic	6	10
5. Modern Standard Arabic	2	5
TOTAL	14	30

Important Note: Please be advised that the content courses (1-3) are different each year. Specified description of the content classes will be available in November 2024.

Module Summaries:

Middle East Studies Content classes: 5ECTS X 3 (15ECTS)

In these modules, students will have the opportunity to learn more about the political, economic, historic, social aspects of the Middle East with a focus on Egypt. Egypt continues to be a central player in regional and world politics, facing issues that are both global and local. Egypt also continues to play a significant role in cultural production and political intellectual thought. Through an interdisciplinary approach, which also includes a series of excursions and guest lecturers from academics and practitioners. students are exposed to the some of the most salient issues impacting Egypt and the Middle East. The modules are taught in English. Full descriptions of content courses offered in Fall will be released in November.

Egyptian Colloquial Arabic (three entry levels): 10 ECTS

The focus in this module is to develop the student's spoken Arabic. Egyptian colloquial Arabic is the most widely understood dialect in the Middle East. Students will be placed in classes depending on their individual levels.

Modern Standard Arabic (three entry levels): 5 ECTS

The focus in this module is to develop reading and writing skills. There will be a focus on media Arabic. Students will be placed in classes depending on their individual levels.

Language Level

Students will be placed in classes depending on their level of Arabic. Levels start from beginners.

Admission

Admission to the programme is subject to the following conditions :

- The student has successfully completed at least three semesters of in a relevant programme;
- The student has permission of a lecturer or coordinator at their home university to join the programme;
- The student is registered at one of the affiliated universities during their stay in Cairo
- For LUC students, your nomination must come from your faculty or department. Admission depends on available spots.

Spring 2025 dates

2 Feb – 5 June 2025

2 Feb: Orientation Day

3 Feb: Classes begin

23-27 Feb: Alexandria trip

2 Mar: Classes recommence

23-27 Mar: Mid-term exams

30 Mar –3 Apr: BREAK EID EL-FITR

6 Apr: Classes recommence

20-24 Apr: EASTER/SHAM EL-NESSIM BREAK

NEDERLANDS-VLAAMS INSTITUUT IN CAIRO
المعهد الهولندي الفلمنكي بالقاهرة
NETHERLANDS-FLEMISH INSTITUTE IN CAIRO

27 Apr: Classes recommence

25-29 May: STUVAC

1-5 June: Final exams

Costs and charges

Participants are charged EUR 180 at the beginning of the programme for course and study materials as well as excursions within Cairo. Additional costs may be incurred for excursions outside of Cairo.

About NVIC

The Netherlands-Flemish Institute in Cairo (NVIC) is an academic institute located on the island of Zamalek, in the heart of Egypt's bustling capital. It is one of five Dutch Scientific Institutes Abroad (NWIB) and is supported by the Research Fund–Flanders (FWO–Vlaanderen). NVIC provides services to six Dutch and two Flemish universities. It offers undergraduate and graduate programmes in Arabic & Islamic Studies, Middle East Studies, and Egyptology & Archaeology. For more information on NVIC, its staff, its activities, and its teaching programmes, visit <http://www.institutes.leiden.edu/nvic/>

Security and safety in Cairo

In all its activities, NVIC adheres to the security and travel advice of the Dutch and Belgian Embassies in Egypt. We forward any travel or security notice to the students. The student's stay in Cairo is, however, voluntary and their own responsibility. NVIC is not accountable for any harm or damage caused by students to third parties during their stay in Cairo, nor for any physical harm or material loss or damage suffered by the students during their stay. Upon arrival, participants of the programme will be required to sign an indemnification statement. Participants also agree to inform NVIC of any physical or psychological condition that could cause problems during their stay in Cairo or harm NVIC in any way. This information is treated confidentially. Travel and health insurance are not covered by the programme. Please inquire with your public or private insurance provider and take the necessary measures.

Application/registration

Application forms (found on our website) must reach the institute (info@nvic.leidenuniv.nl) by 4 November 2024