

Diana Lucia Davila Gordillo Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics
Wassenaarseweg 52, 2333AK Leiden, Netherlands

✉ d.l.davila.gordillo@fsw.leidenuniv.nl 🌐 dianadavilagordillo.com | Updated: Jul. 23, 2024

Academic employment

Institute of Political Science, Leiden University

Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

August 2024 -

Lecturer

2020 - August 2022

Lake Forest College

Assistant Professor

August 2022 - August 2024

Education

Institute of Political Science, Leiden University

Ph.D., Political Science

July 2021

MSc., Political Science (cum laude)

July 2015

Pontificia Universidad Católica del Ecuador

BSc., Sociology with a minor in Political Science

June 2011

Non-academic employment

Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Human Mobility, Ecuador

Second Secretary, Alternate Representative

Permanent Mission of Ecuador to the Organization of American States (OAS)

Washington D.C., United States of America

2012-2014

Political Analyst, Office of Political Analysis

Quito, Ecuador

2009-2012

Research interests

Representation, political parties, party-voter linkages, women in political parties and their careers, identity formation and change, Latin American and Ecuadorian politics, racist discourse, and qualitative research methods.

Publications

Abad, A., Aldaz, R., Davila Gordillo, D., Vallejo Vera, S. (2022). "An Unwelcomed Deja-vu: Ecuadorian Politics in 2021." Revista De Ciencia Política (Santiago).doi: <https://doi.org/10.4067/s0718-090x2022005000112>

Abad, A., Aldaz, R., Davila Gordillo, D., Vallejo Vera, S. (2021). "Believe in me: Parties' Strategies During a Pandemic." Journal of Politics in Latin America 13(3), 419-441. doi: <https://doi.org/10.1177/1866802X211058742>

Davila Gordillo, D., & Wylie, K., (2021). Party leadership and institutionalization in Latin America. In Oxford Research Encyclopedia of Politics. Oxford University Press. doi: <https://doi.org/10.1093/acrefore/9780190228637.013.1667>

Davila Gordillo, D., & Ragazzi, F., (2017), The Radicalisation Awareness Network: Producing the EU counter-radicalisation discourse. In Carrera S., Mitsilegas V. (Eds.) Constitutionalising the Security Union Effectiveness, Rule of Law and Rights in Countering Terrorism and Crime . Brussels: Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS). 54-63.

UNDER REVIEW

Machines Do See Color: How Transformers Outperform Other Approaches in Classifying Different Forms of Racism in Text (with Sebastián Vallejo Vera and Joan C. Timoneda)

Quotas and women candidates (with Sebastián Vallejo Vera)

WORKING PAPERS

Ethnic parties and ethnic linkages? Pachakutik's mixed and segmented linkages.

The division of the indigenous voters: the Ecuadorian paradox of recognition.

Geo-party-links in Ecuador: Introducing the electoral campaigns database (with Angélica Abad, Raúl Aldaz, and Sebastián Vallejo Vera).

"Women voting for ... women?" (with Sebastian Vallejo Vera).

OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Davila Gordillo, D. (2021). Elecciones presidenciales en el Ecuador: flashback al pasado y un futuro incierto. In Voz y Voto.

Abad, A., Aldaz, R., Davila Gordillo, D., Vallejo, S., (2021). Ecuador: cómo diferenciarse cuando compites con 16 candidatos. In Agenda Pública

Research projects

Principal investigator, project: "Attitudes towards Venezuelan migrants among the Ecuadorian youth: Challenging the criminalization of immigrants" (with Leila Demarest, Juan Masullo, Paolo Moncagatta, and Katharina Natter) Project funded by the EGAP LATAM Regional Hub Small Grants Fund and Leiden University.

Principal investigator (with Angelica Abad, Raúl Aldaz, and Sebastián Vallejo Vera) "Geo-Party-Links Ecuador: Electoral Campaigns data"

Contributor and country coordinator for Ecuador with Sebastian Vallejo Vera for the Political Parties Database Project (PPDB).

Conference presentations and invited talks

2024

“Gender Quotas and Women Candidates” Paper presented at the Midwest Political Science Association (MPSA) Annual Conference, April 3-7, Chicago, U.S.A.

2023

““The Missing Women of the Electoral Process or Where have all the women gone?” Paper presented at the Empirical Study of Gender Research Network (EGEN) Workshop at Cornell University, October 12-13.

“Surviving against all odds: Explaining party survival, the case of Pachakutik.” Paper presented (virtually) at the Latin American Studies Association (LASA) Annual Conference, May 24-27, Vancouver, Canada.

“Ethnic parties and ethnic linkages? Pachakutik’s mixed and segmented linkages”. Paper presented at the ECPR Joint Sessions, April 25-28, Toulouse, France.

“Surviving against all odds: Explaining party survival, the case of Pachakutik.” Paper presented at the Midwest Political Science Association (MPSA) Annual Conference, April 13 - 16, 2023. Chicago, U.S.A.

2022

“The division of the indigenous voters: the Ecuadorian paradox of recognition”, Guest Lecture at the Latin American Politics Seminar, University of Denver, October 18.

“Ethnic parties in Latin America: The case of Pachakutik,” Guest Lecture at Konstanz University, June 21-23.

“Ethnic parties in Latin America: The case of Pachakutik,” paper presented at the XL International Congress of the Latin American Studies Association (LASA), May 5-8, 2022, Virtual Congress.

“The division of the indigenous voters: the Ecuadorian paradox of recognition,” paper presented at the ECPR Joint Sessions, The University of Edinburgh & Online, 19-22 April.

2021

“Indigenous Politics in Latin America - the case of Pachakutik”, Guest Lecture at the Latin American Politics Seminar, University of Denver, October 18.

“Believe in Me: Parties’ Strategies During a Pandemic during the Ecuadorian elections.” Paper presented at the ECPR General conference, Virtual Event, August 30 - September 3.

“Voter mobilization strategies in the Ecuadorian elections of 2021”. Invited talk at Tecnológico de Monterrey (Mexico), as part of the event: “Coyunturas: Movilización Electoral en la Era Covid”. May 19.

“The surprising new votes for Pachakutik in 2021: the indigenous voters, and segmented mobilization strategies.” Paper discussed at the twelfth Charlemos event of the Center for Latin American Studies from University of Pittsburgh. March 15

“Pachakutik’s performance in the 2021 elections” invited talk at the event “Cleavages, Indigenous Politics, and Policy” organized by Queen Mary Latin American Network (QMLAN), Queen Mary University London, March 3.

2020

Due to the global pandemic, I cancelled presentations at MPSA and LASA.

2019

“Unity within Diversity – Pachakutik’s mobilization strategies in local elections”. iposter presented at the 2019 APSA Annual Meeting. Washington D.C., USA, August 29 – September 1.

“Evaluating party goals and party performance. The cases of Pachakutik and Izquierda Democratica (1996-2017)”. Paper presented at the XXXVII International Congress of the Latin American Studies Association (LASA). Boston, USA, May 24-27.

“Evaluating party goals and party performance. The cases of Pachakutik and Izquierda Democratica (1996-2017)”. Paper presented at the 77th Annual MPSA Conference. Chicago, USA, April 4-7.

2018

“Partidos Políticos: Objetivos, Actuación y Éxito. Repensando la evaluación del éxito de los partidos políticos desde la perspectiva de sus objetivos”. Presentation at FLACSO Ecuador, August 28.

2017

“Losing Members and Winning Votes? Pachakutik and Indigenous Representation in Ecuador.” Paper presented at the ECPR Joint Sessions University of Nottingham, Nottingham April 25-30 April.

Teaching Experience

Lake Forest College

2023 - 2024

Introduction to Comparative Politics (x2)

Women, Institutions, and Politics (x2)

Latin American Politics

Campaigns and Elections in Latin America

2022 - 2023

Introduction to Comparative Politics (x3)

Women, Institutions, and Politics

Latin American Politics

Leiden University

MASTER LEVEL (LECTURER)

2021 - 2022	Qualitative Research Methods (x2)
2020 - 2021	Qualitative Research methods (x3)
2019 - 2020	Qualitative Research methods (x3)

BACHELOR LEVEL (LECTURER)

2021 - 2022	Bachelor Project: Democracy in Latin America (supervised 14 undergraduate thesis) Introduction to Comparative Politics (x2)
2020 - 2021	Bachelor Project: Democracy in Latin America (supervised 11 undergraduate thesis)
2019 - 2020	Seminar: Party politics in Latin America

Scholarships and awards

Lake Forest College Faculty Summer Research Funds	2023
Institute of Political Science, Leiden University, Dissertation Improvement Grant	2019
ECPR Travel Grant for the 2017 ECPR Summer School in Methods and Techniques.	2017
Scholarship for Excellence from the Secretaría Nacional de Educación Superior (SENESCYT), for Master Level studies.	2014

Other relevant activities

SUMMER SCHOOLS

ECPR Summer School in Methods and Techniques, Central European University, Budapest, Hungary	2017
Network Analysis
Mixed Methods
27th ECPR Summer School on Political Parties Nottingham University, Nottingham, United Kingdom	2017

SEMINARS

Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS) Expert Seminar on the effects of Counter-terrorism and counter-radicalisation policies	April 2015
Organization of American States (OAS) Special Session on International Humanitarian Law	January 2014

Workshop: Mechanisms to Protect the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

October 2013

Service to the profession

Elected member of the ECPR Standing Group on Latin American Politics

2023 -

Officer of the IPSA Indigenous Politics Research Committee

2023 -

Member of the Advisory Council of the Institute of Political Science

2020-2022

Section co-chair: "Social Movements, Political Parties and Neoliberalism: Challenges and Alternatives for Latin America" at the ECPR General Conference at the University of Wrocław

2019

Languages

Spanish (Native speaker), English (C1), French (B2), German (A1), Dutch (Basic comprehension)